The Journey

Schools, Colleges & Government Officials –
The Gospel is Advancing!

Not everyone gets the chance to walk into schools and boldly share the Word of God, but somehow, He made a way for us. We spoke at multiple schools, even stepping into college campuses—something that doesn't happen often. Even crazier? Government officials invited us to share and gave us permission to hand out Bible curriculums. That's right. God is moving in places we least expect, and we're just trying to keep up.

Outreach and Growth

THANK YOU FOR SUPPORTING MY YES TO MISSIONS

Thank you to everyone who supported me in this past season. I can honestly say I've grown so much—both in my faith and in my confidence.

From walking through the barangays of the Philippines to the streets of Thailand, my eyes were opened. I've come back with a deeper appreciation for the home I live in—not because we have more, but because I saw people who live with so much joy, even when they have so little.

We live in a country where we have everything at our fingertips, yet we still complain when our favorite cereal is out of stock. Meanwhile, these kids are running around barefoot, full of laughter and life. They've got something we've forgotten—joy in the simple things. Joy in what they already have.

And that right there... that hit me.

So as I step into this next season, I carry their joy with me. Thank you for helping me get here—and for walking with me as I keep going. We're just getting started.

An Industry First

MAKING WAVES WITH NEW TECH LAUNCH.

I'm stepping into a new season—a season that's all about bold faith, real joy, and going wherever God calls.

We're preparing to go to Maui, Molokai, and Oahu. Not for vacation, but for mission. We're going to seek out the ones who feel the fire in their hearts—those ready to drop what they're doing and say yes to something bigger. I believe this journey will spark something that changes families, communities, and entire generations.

This isn't about me. It's about trailblazers.
It's about the ones willing to chase vision instead of comfort.
It's about raising up a generation that knows who they are and who their God is.

But I can't do this alone.

Right now, my rent is $550 a month—and there are future ministry costs ahead. I truly believe that if I can find just 50 people willing to support me with $20 a month, I'll have $1,000 to cover all of it—rent, food, and future outreach. That kind of support would allow me to go all-in and keep pouring into this mission with everything I've got.

If you feel stirred to be part of this, I'd love to invite you in—not just as someone who gives, but as someone who journeys with me. You're not just supporting a mission... you're stepping into the story with me.

Let's go after something that only God can write.
